Exercising's in Fashion — Make Sure It's Your Way

With modern trends emphasizing health and fitness, more and more individuals are planning and following personalized health and fitness programs.

When planning your individual program, it is important to emphasize the ability to meet daily stress without fatigue and still maintain reserve energy for recreation and unexpected activities.

As most exercise plans place continually-increased demands on the body's physical capabilities, it is also important to have a health check-up before beginning or making changes in your personal fitness program.

You'll want to begin with exercises that coincide with your present physical condition. As you progress, you can undertake different activities. You'll also want to give great consideration to personal motivation and choose exercises which will lead to the accomplishment of your specific fitness goals.

Isometric exercises promote muscular growth and strength through muscle contractions. These exercises are designed to place one group of muscles against the other, often by means of an immovable object. (You can use a door, chair, or bedpost when performing these exercises, making them ideal for at-home routines.)

Calisthenics serve mainly to limber up muscles and condition the body. A form of isotonic exercise, the most popular of this group are toe touches, push-ups, sit-ups, and lifting small weights. Mild participant sports such as shuffleboard, archery, and pitching horseshoes also fall into this category.

An aerobic exercise is for those who desire to build the kind of endurance and stamina required of training athletes. The 50-yard dash is perhaps the best known of this kind of exercise.

Aerobics are physical activities that increase heart and respiratory action. Exercises such as running, jumping rope, cycling, swimming, and paddle ball are included in this grouping, as is roller-skating, a sport that's being taken up by an increasing number of adults.

Be sure to select exercises which correspond to the amount of time you plan to actively spend on your new health program. No doubt, the first few days will be the hardest. As these exercises become a matter of routine, you'll enjoy them more and your improving condition will make the activity easier and more worthwhile. Exercising should be enjoyable, so that you'll want to keep up your program.

Many have successfully found the benefits of a regular exercise plan allows them to progress towards their goals without straining their bodies or their patience.

Beauty being the best

Sums up the unsearchable
and secret aims
Of nature.

42,000 Miles Limited Warranty

42,000 MILE LIMITED WARRANTY

GOODYEAR Steel Belted Radial Tires

WHAT IS WARRANTED?
Your Goodyear Steel Radial Tire is warranted by the distributor to deliver under normal conditions a tread life of 42,000 miles when properly fitted to one passenger car.
If your Goodyear Steel Radial Tire wears evenly across the tread down to the tread wear indicators (2/32" tread depth) before delivering 42,000 miles, the distributor will upon presentation of this properly completed warranty form, proof of purchase,and in exchange for the worn out tire, give credit toward the purchase of a comparable new Goodyear Steel Radial Tire. Purchase credit on the new tire will be made on a pro rata basis based on original purchase price of the tire. Mileage will be determined by the odometer reading.

WHAT IS NOT COVERED
No adjustment will be made if proper inflation pressures and wheel alignment have not been maintained or if the tires have not been rotated when needed as indicated by irregular tread wear.
Tires used for racing.
Tires in commercial appl ications.
Tires used in off-road service or in any application not recommended by the vehicle manufacturer.
Claims made by anyone other than the first retail purchaser of the tire.

OWNER OBLIGATIONS
- You must produce this warranty form and proof of purchase at the time of adjustment. This form must be properly completed.
- You must pay the adjusted price of the new tire, local taxes and all charges for mounting and balancing.
- You must present the tire to the retailer from whom you purchased it.
- You must fill out and sign a standard claim form.

LEGAL RIGHTS
No implied warranties, either of merchantability or otherwise, are extended beyond the time when the tire has delivered its original tread life as shown by wear to one or more tread wear indicator bars.
The distributor extending this warranty shall not be responsible (1) for any commercial loss, (2) for any damage to, or loss of,property other than the tire itself, or (3) to the extent permitted by law, for any other type of consequential damages.

4-H Junior Awards Assembly

by K. Lonnette Marsh
Extension Agent

The 4-H Junior Awards Assembly was held Wednesday, June 6, 1979, at Appomattox Elementary School and Friday, June 8, 1979, at Pamplin Elementary School.

The junior 4-H Clubs (4th, 5th and 6th grades) were awarded for their achievement and participation in the school 4-H Clubs. During their monthly meeting each club was evaluated by the use of a checklist on the performance of officers, discipline and cooperation, participation in monthly programs and participation in 4-H activities. The 4-H Club evaluation was designed to motivate 4-H'ers to improve their understanding and participation in 4-H programs and activities.

During the assemblies each of the 23 clubs were given a blue or red ribbon depending upon their total number of evaluation points. The top 4th, 5th, and 6th grade; the most improved club; the top school club and the outstanding county club received recognition.

These groups are pictured above (each class is represented by their club officers)

Employment Commission, as the county did last year.

Approved application for a grant of more than $600 available through the Lynchburg Community Action Group to be used for the little league teams sponsored by the Appomattox County Youth Association.

Appointed members of an "Overall Economic Development Plan Committee" who will draft a plan necessary to qualify the county for monetary assistance programs available through the federal Economic Development Administration.

Supervisors previously expressed reluctance to go through all steps needed for EDA qualification, saying few if any EDA programs could help Appomattox County. They agreed to seek the designation, they said, because if Appomattox becomes eligible then all counties in the Central Virginia Planning District also would be eligible.

No other area county could meet the criteria necessary to qualify for the EDA programs without Appomattox.

COOL ASSETS

Whole-house air conditioning provides bonus benefits that often are overlooked, says an air conditioning expert.

"Beyond the primary function of cooling the entire home," said John P. Farrell of York Heating and Air Conditioning, "it also helps filter out dust, pollen and smoke."

"This can be a great boon for asthma and hayfever sufferers," he said. Filtering the air also reduces cleaning costs for carpets and draperies and cuts down on house cleaning time.

"There are other bonuses," Farrell said. Many people don't realize that financial institutions consider whole-house air conditioning a home improvement. Its installation generally increases the salability and resale value of a home.

"In those areas where summer weather is humid, as well as hot, the system acts as a dehumidifier," he added. "Also, preparation of hot meals in a cool kitchen is easier."

Woman's Club Presents Check to ACHS Band

Mrs. Roma Moore, treasurer of the Woman's Club of Appomattox, presents a check of $225 to Mr. Edward Leonard, president of the ACHS Band Boosters. The money is to be placed in bank savings account for new uniforms for the Marching Band. The Band Boosters started the uniform drive in the fall of this year and now have approximately $2,000 of a $7,500 goal that is needed to outfit the instrumental section of the rapidly growing band. Keith Leonard models the new uniform the band hopes to purchase.

Health Spas

If you're planning to join a health spa, here are some things to look for in making your selection:

Make sure the staff is well-qualified, and that the individual progress of each member is monitored by the staff.

Does the club have the type of equipment you need? How accessible is the club to your home or office and are the hours convenient for you? You'll want to make visits to the club as handy as possible, so that you'll get the most benefit from it.

Mealtime at Bedtime?
